Foreword: Navigating the Future of Fintech in Africa

It is with great pleasure to introduce you to the Africa Tech Summit Deal Book. In the following pages, you will embark on a journey through the dynamic world of fintech, exploring the transformative landscape that defines our continent's financial technology sector. In recent years, the fintech space in Africa has witnessed significant transactions, reflecting the growing importance of technology in our economic landscape.

The Africa Tech Summit Deal Book captures these moments, shedding light on the innovations currently happening in Africa's fintech landscape. The opportunities in this area are immense. With over USD$20bn raised by tech companies in Africa over the past decade, and fintech taking the lion share thereof, the role of venture capital in supporting the growth of the fintech ecosystem in Africa cannot be understated. Despite fluctuations in capital raising momentum, Absa remains committed to supporting our clients as they navigate the ever-evolving landscape of fintech in Africa.

At Absa, we are committed to identifying and supporting fintech-related advisory opportunities. From facilitating mergers and acquisitions to capital raising in both public and private markets, our role extends beyond traditional banking boundaries. We navigate the intricacies of balance sheet lending and foster joint venture conversations within the broader Absa Group, ensuring a comprehensive approach to our clients' needs.

In comparing African fintech to the rest of the world, we identify unique challenges and trends. Carve outs and the growing demand for local currency funding are distinctive themes that we expect to continue gaining traction as incumbent institutions seek to unlock value from payment assets, and new age fintech companies seek to localize their funding. The rise of instant payments, embedding financial services into legacy value chains, and a focus on domestic payments infrastructure are all strong themes that we expect to continue shaping discourse on the sector's future.

As you explore the Africa Tech Summit Deal Book, you will not only witness transactions but also stories of collaboration, innovation, and growth. Absa, as a leading Pan-African banking group, takes pride in being a driving force in this transformative journey, connecting dots, unlocking value, and contributing to the continued evolution of fintech in Africa.

I invite you to delve into the possibilities presented within these pages, envision the future, and join us in shaping the narrative of fintech on the African continent.

Short Description

Roam is a technology-driven electric mobility company that designs and develops electric motorcycles and electric buses for emerging markets, starting in Kenya. These two products can offset the most amount of carbon emissions globally (more than 90% reduction for motorcycles and 80% for electric buses), reduce local emissions in urban areas, and at the same time create the most financial value for end-users.

The mission remains to provide low-cost, and low-emission transport solutions for the vast population across Kenya and the greater African continent who primarily rely on public transport to get around. We are actively working towards a future where Africans can all move around in a sustainable, unfragmented public transport sector, a future free of climate disasters. Roam is going after a large opportunity and is currently hundreds of people strong, all working to actualize this electric future.

Short Description

Koala Duka transforms how kiosk owners in Africa do business. Our core offering is a dashboard platform that provides up-to-date pricing information on bulk purchases of Fast-Moving Consumer Goods (FMCGs).

Typically, kiosk owners spend 3 hours every day comparing procurement prices, and struggle to find the best price at all times. This leads to higher costs and slimmer profits. Koala Duka's platform tackles this issue by offering an easy-to-use tool that compares prices from different suppliers in real time. This enables kiosk owners to buy products at the best available prices, boosting their profit margins.

Our service is specifically designed for the urban micro-retail market and is accessible to users regardless of their tech skills. Overall, Koala Duka is focused on economically empowering small retailers and contributing to fairer market practices.
